Opportunities for rest and photo stops:

- Along the southern end of Lake Garda towards the east via Desenzano into the hinterland. On the route, there are magnificent views of the lake and the vineyards and olive groves.
- Desenzano with its harbor is the largest town on the lake, very cozy, and has many restaurants and cafes.
- Soiano, a small village in the hinterland, has a castle on a hill and more.
- After Polpenazze and Mura, small towns where time seems to stand still again.
- Descent via serpentine roads to Salo, a well-known town on Lake Garda with a harbor promenade. Chic from the old days is omnipresent.
- Manerba is the ferry port and the crossing by boat to Torri del Benaco takes about 45 minutes. The view of the coastlines and mountains from the lake is impressive.
- Return via the Gardesana and side streets.

In the early morning, drive along the lakeside road to Desenzano, perhaps enjoying a morning cappuccino there before turning off the main road soon after Desenzano and heading into the hinterland. On wonderful small and quiet roads through the villages of the hinterland, with tree-lined sections and countless photo stops, as is almost always the case at Lake Garda. On the descent to Salo along the serpentine road, there is a very nice view of the lake and Salo. The drive through Salo, Barbarano, and Gardone to Maderno and the ferry port involves some traffic and requires caution when passing through the villages. If time permits at the ferry port, a cappuccino or espresso should definitely be enjoyed - that's Italy. The crossing is a wonderful break on the deck of the car ferry, which also has a closed passenger room. After arriving in Torre del Benaco, drive along the Gardesana to Garda and Bardolino, where we turn off onto a side street until Peschiera.
