Opportunities for rest and photo stops:

- Cola, a small town on a hill with a thermal bath nearby, great views towards Castelnuovo del Garda.
- Castelnuovo del Garda, with a larger wine cooperative and a throughway towards Verona and Custoza.
- Santa Lucia, with a very good restaurant and hilly landscape in the southeast of Lake Garda.
- Custoza, home of the white wine Bianco Custoza. A beautiful location of the small town on a hill amidst endless vineyards. In the middle of the small town is the church with a very simple but rustic bar right next to it. Opening times depend on the mood of the host. Monument on a hill.
- Goito, in the middle between Valeggio and Mantua and not far from the river Mincio.
- Valeggio, a larger town south of Lake Garda that became known for its tortellini and the famous Tortellini festival on the long stone bridge in Borghetto.
- The Parco Sigurta is an impressive botanical garden that has its charm in every season.

From Peschiera, after leaving the town behind, the route leads on small roads into the eastern hinterland of the southern Lake Garda. The roads are winding and invite you to roll and observe. When passing Castelnuovo del Garda, there is a first small ascent and after a short ride on the main road, turn right into the wine-growing area around Custoza. The roads are mostly quiet, the asphalt is almost everywhere present, even if sometimes very brittle. From a distance, you can already see Custoza lying on a hill and it rolls perfectly there and then up to the monument. Break at the church and then continue south towards Goito and along the Mincio, the only outlet of Lake Garda, back to Valeggio and Peschiera.
